A night full of humor is still intact as the Mattoon Arts Council has changed gears for its upcoming dinner theater production.

Due to casting challenges, the original production of "Bathroom Humor" has been canceled. In its place, however, MAC is proud to present the Eastern Illinois University improv group, Hello Dali.

Hello Dali was started 15 years ago by a group of EIU theater students. The group has allowed students to improve their improvisation skills while making an audience laugh. Hello Dali bases its shows around short improv-style games, very similar to the popular television show "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" They pick the games ahead of time, but rely on the audience to come up with the suggestions for the scenes in the game to take place.
